

PNG LNG Project Update

Scott Sandlin
Senior Vice President – Production, ExxonMobil PNG Limited

PNG LNG – Industry Leading

Almost 24 billion kina delivered back to the State and its Landowners

Leading safety, reliability & environmental performance

Routinely producing 25% more than its nameplate capacity

Reputation for 95%
reliability

More than 100 million hours worked

9 years work without a Lost Time Incident at LNGP & 5 years at HGCP

Backbone of Success

Noah Pingin, on assignment in the United States

Taking Charge of Training

Yumi Skilful Yumi Strong

Paying it Forward

The image shows two women, Gita Kristie Korimbo and Amanda Nahi Habitein, standing in an industrial setting. They are both wearing full safety gear, including white Petzl helmets, safety glasses, and harnesses. Gita is on the left, wearing a tan work shirt and pants, and Amanda is on the right, wearing a tan work shirt and black pants with reflective stripes. They are both smiling and holding ropes. The background features industrial equipment, including pipes, valves, and a large metal structure.

Gita Kristie Korimbo, Papua New Guinea's
second female Rope Access Technician

Amanda Nahi Habitein, Papua New Guinea's first female Rope Access Technician

It's Only Just the Beginning

